

Summer 2026 Internship Opportunities at PBS North and The North 103.3

Are you passionate about media production, community engagement and social media? PBS North | The North 103.3 FM is seeking several dedicated Interns to join our team during the 2026 summer semester! This is a unique opportunity to collaborate with various departments at PBS North and The North 103.3. We are looking for internship candidates in these areas of operation:

- Radio Production
- TV Production
- Marketing

This outstanding opportunity will give your career a head start with phenomenal support from a collaborative, mixed-skills team. This experience will also help you develop and expand your media literacy skills as both a content consumer and creator.

What You'll do:

Depending on your interest and specific role, you will help shape our community content. Under supervision, Radio and TV Production interns will curate social media and broadcast content that highlights the exciting activities and projects within our organization. You will also gain hands-on experience in a production environment, where you can learn skills in lighting, sound, and storytelling along with best practices for digital, linear, and audio platforms. Marketing interns will also curate social media content, along with assisting with special events and station promotions.

Qualifications:

Your Background

- Be currently enrolled in a bachelor's degree program (or associate's degree tracking to bachelor's degree) in a related field.
- Be willing to work in a hybrid environment.
- Have a basic knowledge of content management systems.
- Skillset to problem solve by writing and communicating well.
- Passionate about Public Media.
- TV Production applicants must be available from approximately 3:30 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. Thursdays (or later if needed), as well as occasional special projects as assigned.

Compensation

This is a part-time position working 10 hours/week at $13/hour during the 13-week internship.

Internship Evaluation Process: Throughout the duration of the internship, you will undergo two evaluations to track your progress. The first evaluation will take place midway through the internship period, allowing you to receive feedback on project performance and skill development. The second evaluation will occur at the end of the internship, providing you with a comprehensive assessment of your performance and accomplishments during your time with us. These evaluations aim to support you in your professional development and ensure a mutually beneficial experience.

If you're looking to enhance your skills and make an impact in public media, we'd love to hear from you! Interested parties should send a cover email, resume, and completed application in confidence to applicant@wdse.org. Please indicate your specific area of interest (Radio Production, TV Production, Marketing, or Engineering). Applications can be downloaded on our Careers page of our website.
